

To reduce pollution, start with prevention To reduce pollution, start with prevention To reduce pollution, start with prevention

- Buy rechargeable alkaline batteries.

- Look for batteries that have less mercury and heavy metals.

- Buy rechargeable alkaline batteries.

- Look for batteries that have less mercury and heavy metals.

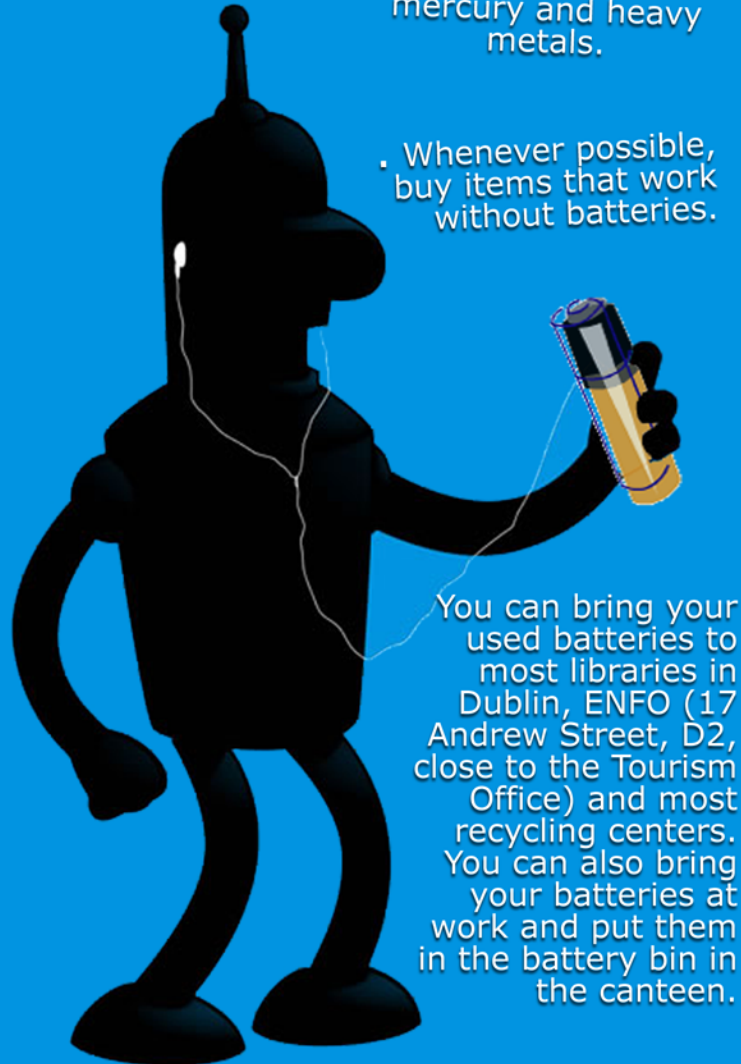

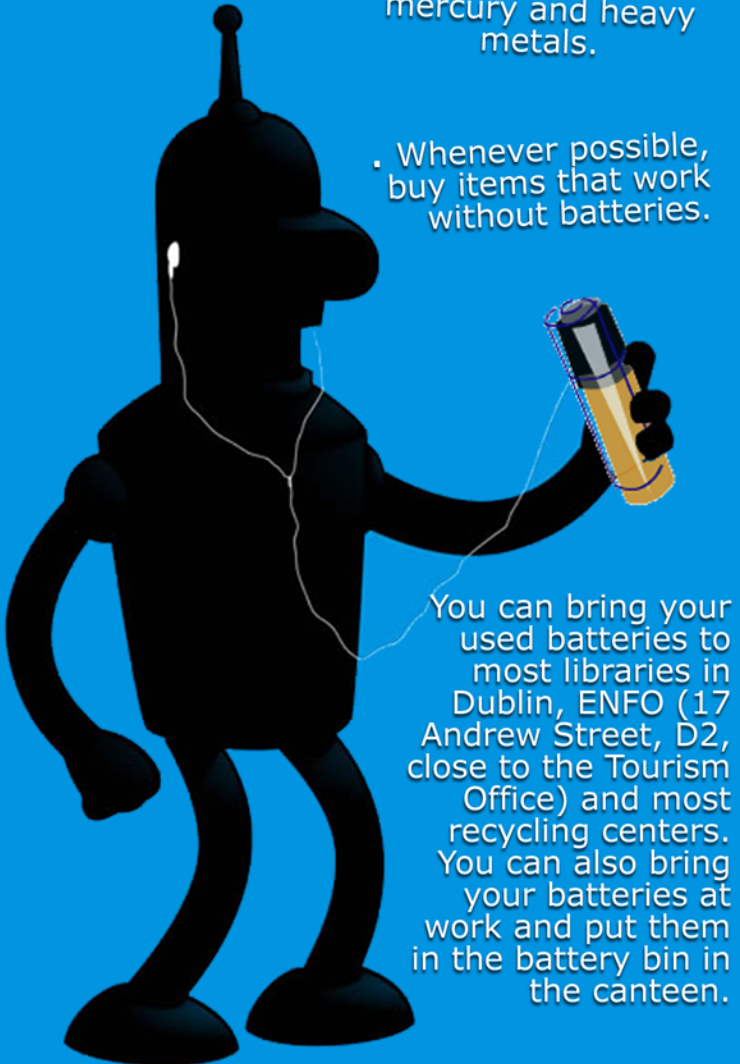

- Buy rechargeable alkaline batteries.

- Look for batteries that have less mercury and heavy metals.

- Whenever possible, buy items that work without batteries.

- Whenever possible, buy items that work without batteries.

- Whenever possible, buy items that work without batteries.

You can bring your used batteries to most libraries in Dublin, ENFO (17 Andrew Street, D2, close to the Tourism Office) and most recycling centers. You can also bring your batteries at work and put them in the battery bin in the canteen.

You can bring your used batteries to most libraries in Dublin, ENFO (17 Andrew Street, D2, close to the Tourism Office) and most recycling centers. You can also bring your batteries at work and put them in the battery bin in the canteen.

You can bring your used batteries to most libraries in Dublin, ENFO (17 Andrew Street, D2, close to the Tourism Office) and most recycling centers. You can also bring your batteries at work and put them in the battery bin in the canteen.

For more info on recycling centers close to you, go to www.dublinwaste.ie

For more info on recycling centers close to you, go to www.dublinwaste.ie

For more info on recycling centers close to you, go to www.dublinwaste.ie

NEVER throw away batteries

REDUCE REUSE RECYCLE

NEVER throw
away
batteries

REDUCE REUSE RECYCLE

NEVER throw
away
batteries

REDUCE REUSE RECYCLE